Subject: Storm Water from NanoTech
Date: March 10, 2010

The included article about storm water from NanoTech contains the quote
..."It's time to stop the blame game and focus on identifying and implementing a solution." Steve Janack of NanoTech.

And that is why I am requesting a meeting with you.

There is no question that the storm water from NanoTech--- is flowing into the storm water system that comes into McKownville ;

it used to flow north into Patroon Creek. (see the included paper);

it is causing problems in McKownville;

a solution is needed;

and NanoTech and the University at Albany have the responsibility to minimize negative environmental impacts on the neighboring community.

This problem should not be permitted to continue.

I look forward to meeting with you.
